DairyTrace updates for all things traceability

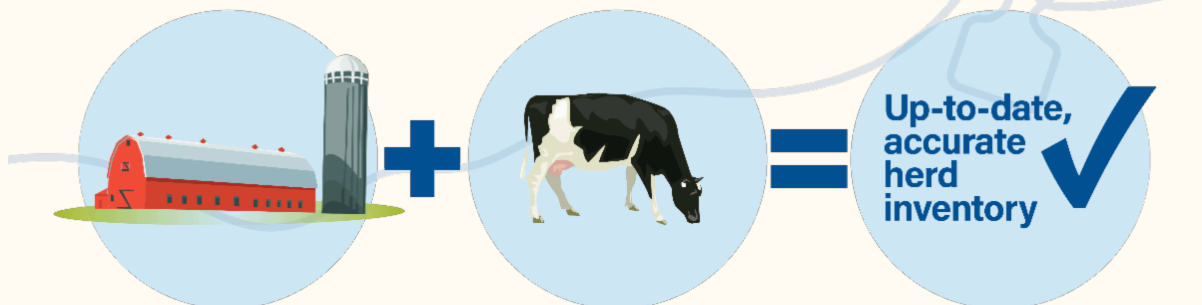

Welcome to DairyTrace TagTips - quick tips, helpful hints and FAQs to help you understand the most efficient ways to use your traceability tools.

Keep your herd inventory up to date for effective traceability

Effective traceability systems like DairyTrace help protect animal health and our entire industry.

Ensuring that all the animals in your herd and their movements are up to date in DairyTrace means that animal health officials can take fast and effective action during a disease investigation. In turn, this protects our industry and Canada's export markets by ensuring trade can continue.

Maintain an accurate animal inventory

Ensure all animals on your farm are in DairyTrace.

- Tag activation
- Move-in
- Import

Keep your inventory up to date. Regularly report when animals leave the farm.

- Move-out
- On-farm disposal
- Export

Up-to-date, accurate herd inventory ✓

- Quicker traceback in an animal health emergency
- Improved data quality for disease surveillance and preparedness

Tip! Report all tag activations (including male calves and beef crossbreds), on-farm

Tip: Report move-outs to keep your herd inventory up to date! Including the destination Premises ID is best practice.
